The malady that crept slowly upon her made it a hard struggle to complete the last year's work, and, when it was finished, she succumbed to pain and illness, and was a patient, uncomplaining sufferer during the past three months. THE GAME OF "HOP."

EXCELS POKER AND IS EQUAL TO THE FASCINATING FARO.

A New Short Card Game That Has Takes Paris and London by Storm, and Prom ises to Become Popular in America-How It Is Played and the Rules for It.

People of Paris who gamble are devoting all of their spare time to a new game that has supplanted all of the other games played for money.

The new game is called "hop," and it is described as being the most fascinating game that has ever been played—not even excepting the alluring game of noker.

Paris is so infatuated with "hop" that millions of francs are lost and won at it every night.

The game of "hop" has been intro-duced into the clubs of London, and it is being played there with a zeal worthy of a better cause. So far as known the game has not as yet been attempted in the United States, but it is only a matter of time when it will become as popular there as in Paris and London, for the reason that it is so enticing that it is impossible for card players to withstand its temptations. All that is required to render it a go there is to explain the rules governing the play.

"Hop" is an extremely simple game.

Any person of ordinary mental caliber can play it if once told how to proceed. Here is a description of the game: Four persons are necessary to make 79 up a game. Take four decks of cards, from which throw out all of the cards below the sevens. That leaves the aces, kings, queens, jacks, tens, nines, eights and sevens to play with.

FOUR DECKS IN ONE. All four of the decks are shuffled together as though they were one deck. This done, and, the cards having been cut, one person makes the deal, giving one card at a time to the other players until he has dealt them three cards apiece, but taking no cards himself. After the deal those who have been supplied with cards look at their hands and bet or stay out, as their judgment The matter of betting having been settled, the dealer turns a card from the top of the deck and proceeds to pay and take, according to the exigencies of the Losers and winners are determined thus: If the dealer turns an ace he makes a sweep, or, in other words, wins all of the bets that are made, regardless of the cards held by the other players.

If he turns a king, and there are any kings in the hands out, they "stand off" the dealer. All cards below the king lose on that hand or deal. All aces out It is merely this: The persons to whom the cards are dealt take chances, after looking at their cards, and before seeing the turn up, of their cards being either higher in denomination than the card that will be turned up or as high.

The ace is the dealer's percentage. A king or a seven will stand off a king or a seven, and there is nothing lost nor won on such a stand off, but nothing will stand off an ace when turned by a dealer. Even if there are three aces in a hand against the dealer, he wins if he turn an ace.

When the cards have all been dealt by one dealer he passes them to the player on his left, and they are shuffled and dealt by that person until they are again exhausted, and so on as long as the game lasts. They are not shuffled between the hands as in poker or euchre, but after each hand is played the cards employed in that hand are thrown aside, not to be used until another grand shuffle has been

A limit is placed on bets to be made, which is determined, of course, by the purse of the players.

A SAMPLE GAME. Imagine a game. Say the players are Blackie Edwards. Tem Meade, Dick Holland and Bill Bolander.

They sit in the order named, with Blackie on Meade's right. It's Blackie's deal. He shuffles the cards and hands them to Bolander to cut. Then he deals one card at a time, helping Meade first, until he deals three cards from the top of the deck to each of the players.

Meade looks at his hand and finds a king, a ten and a seven. The limit is $25. Meade bets $1. He signifies his willingness to bet by declaring that it's a "go," that being the technical phrase.

Holland finds in his hand a jack, a nine and an eight spot. He bets the Bolander discovers a queen and a pair of tens. He bets $6.25.

Blackie then turns up a jack. Meade's king, being higher than the jack turned by the dealer, wins $1, but the ten and seven both being below the jack, cause him to lose $1 each, which forces him to pay the dealer $1. Holland's jack is a stand off for Blackie's jack turned up, and there is no action Tallors. so far as that card is concerned. Dick loses on the ten and the seven, they both being below the jack in value, so he owes Blackie twice $25 until he can see Bill Bolander wins one bet and loses two, having a queen and two tens. The next hand, all of the outsiders, that is, those other than the dealer, have average cards and bet well up to the limit, but, notwithstanding the fact that Meade has three aces, Blackie wins everything in sight when he turns up his card, for it is an ace. Remember, aces in the hand of the outsider do not stand off an ace turned by the dealer. When the dealer turns an ace there is but one thing to be done on that deal, and that is to take everything-if you are the

If an outsider hold three cards corresponding to any card-except an aceturned by the dealer, there is nothing lost or won on the hand, for they are all a stand off. If an outsider have three cards that prove to be higher than the TOLEDO & SOUTH HAVEN R. R. one turned by the dealer, the person holding the cards in question wins three times the amount of the money he bet. If he hold three cards that are lower Leave So. Haven. than the one turned he loses three times

Those who play cards for money like to get quick action, and for that reason the game of "hop" is bound to become popular in the States when once started ere. The action in "hop" is as rapid as in faro. In fact, it is little short of being furious.-Paris Letter to Cincinnati Enquirer.
